Ambedkar's Ideals are the Foundation of Modern India's Progress: PMRDA Chief Engineer Bagadi

PUNE/AKURDI: Asserting that the philosophy of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar remains a guiding light for a developed and integrated India, Shivprasad Bagadi, Chief Engineer (In-charge) of the Pune Metropolitan Region Development Authority (PMRDA), stated that his vision of equality, liberty, and fraternity forms the true bedrock of the nation's holistic progress.

The PMRDA headquarters in Akurdi witnessed a solemn ceremony on Tuesday to commemorate the birth anniversary of the Bharat Ratna awardee. Paying floral tributes to the Dalit icon, Bagadi emphasized that Dr. Ambedkar's contributions to education, women's empowerment, and social justice provided the marginalized with a path to live with dignity.

"Babasaheb's thoughts are not confined to history; they define the direction for a robust future India. His national vision, anchored in the Constitution, remains a firm foundation for our elevation. It is an undeniable truth that the seeds of India's confident march toward becoming a global superpower were sown by Dr. Ambedkar," Bagadi remarked.

The event saw a significant turnout of officials, including Joint Commissioner (Administration) Rupali Awale-Dambe, Executive Engineers Vasant Naik and Shivkumar Kupal, and Public Relations Officer Purushottam Sangle, among others.

Marking the occasion, Deputy Engineer Prashant Joshi delivered a special reading highlighting the life and transformative work of the chief architect of the Indian Constitution.
